MOODY AND DAVIDSON LOST COUNTY BY 185

THREE CANDIDATES GET THREE VOTES EACH IN PRIMARY POLL JULY 24

Governor Miriam A. Ferguson received a majority over all opponents for governor in the county on Saturday, July 24 by 185 votes according to the official returns as compiled in the office of W. G. Gillis, chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee.

The vote for governor in Milam County is as follows:

Ferguson	3354
Moody	2411
Davidson	749
Zimmermann	3
Wilmans	3
Johnston	3

The total vote cast as shown by the governor's race where maximum interest was shown was 6523. This figure shows a decline in ballots of more than 500 as contrasted with the vote in the primary election of 1924 when more than 7,000 were cast.

Lynch Davidson increased his vote approximately 200 votes over his total in the county in 1924 while Mrs. Ferguson increased her vote 667. Dan Moody in the primary of 1924 received more than 4700 votes in the first election. His vote in the primary on last Saturday shows a considerable decline but it is a good vote considering the Ferguson strength in this county.

SAM HEFLEY CANDIDATE IN SPECIAL ELECTION

NOMINEE OF PARTY OFFERS FOR UNEXPIRED TERM FROM MILAM COUNTY

Sam Hefley nominee of the Democratic party from Milam County to the legislature has authorized his announcement as a candidate for the legislature for the unexpired term of D. S. Hollowell.

The governor has ordered a special election to be held on September 4 and Mr. Hefley will be a candidate in that election.

Mr. Hefley was elected in the primary election on Saturday, July 24 without opposition in the election on September 4.

He calls on his friends everywhere to rally to his support and elect him for the unexpired term.

WHO IS DAN MOODY?

Dan Moody is a native Texan. He was born in Williamson county and is 34. His parentage speaks for itself. His father and mother are of old southern families. His forbearers came to America from the British Isles long before the wars of the American revolution. He was not born with a silver spoon in his mouth. Fortunes of war reduced the people of the south to poverty when the flag of the Confederacy was furled forever at Appomattox courthouse.

His father was a deeply religious man, prominent in the early history of Williamson county. His mother was a highly educated woman, a true daughter of the south. Dan Moody as a boy had to work his way. He attended the public schools in the city of Taylor and he had no vacation time for leisure. He worked with his hands. He was of a studious nature and he burned the midnight oil. American history appealed to him, the achievements of the fathers who made this republic appeal to him, the Declaration of Indepndence and the constitution of the United States appealed to him.

Science of government appealed to him as a study and he became deeply grounded in the fundamentals of government. He determined to have an education and he achieved it largely through his own efforts. He worked with electricians; he worked with men setting poles and stringing wires and he became an electrician himself. This paved the way for the Moody of the future. He attended the university. He studied law, he became a lawyer and incidentaly, when the call came he wore the uniform of his country.

Peace came at last and he began the practice of law and had to fight his way again. He became county attorney of Williamson county and won high place for devotion of law and liberty. He was appointed district attorney and continued his work. He sent masked mobites to the penitentiary and then the hour came when the people of the state drafted him for attorney general and he made the race.

He polled an enormous vote in the first primary and was nominated by an overwhelming majority in the second primary. He became attorney general of Texas. His achievements as attorney general are known to the inmates of every home fireside in Texas. He was drafted for governor by those who believed in him, and while in the throes of a bitter campaign he married a Texas girl, worthy of his love and ambition, and then he fought his campaign to a finish with a dash and a directness of method that won the admiration of many of those who followed other standards.

This is a crude life history of Dan Moody who, at 34, has made a name for himself far beyond the boundaries of this imperial commonwealth and marks him as one of the remarkable characters to be dealt with in the coming years on the state and national stages of political action.

W. Sledge Houston Case Is Sent by Court To Robertson County

Belton, Texas, July 28.—A change of venue in the case of W. Sledge Houston, charged with the slaying of Constable Garret A. White at Somerville, was ordered Wednesday to Robertson County, in the Eighty-Fifth Judicial District, by Judge Lewis H. Jones. Houston's recent trial here on the charge resulted in a hung jury.

The case is to be heard at the November term of court. Houston is out on bond of $15,000.

The change of venue was ordered by Judge Jones on his own motion, after overruling the motion of the state asking the change. Judge Jones referred to the fairness of the first trial and suggested the probability of the second also resulting in a hung jury if held in this county.

Miss Woolley in a statement found elsewhere in this issue thanks the people for their support.

Mr. McClellen expresses his thanks for the vote given him and says he will be a candidate for the same office in 1928. He is an ex-service man and lost the use of his left arm in the world war while fighting with the American army in France.

LARGE CROWDS ENJOY DANCE AT WAYSIDE INN

Large crowds have been enjoying the dances at Wayside Inn. The music has been fine and with the electric fans dancing has been very pleasant. Every night there are several picnic crowds who enjoy the swimming and dancing at this pleasant retreat. Drive out some night. It is only a five minute drive from town.

CITY SANITARIAN TO PROMOTE BETTER HEALTH

CO-OPERATION ASKED OF CITIZENS IN CLEANING UP CITY

The citizens of Cameron have been very kind in aiding the city in their campaign to get all of their weeds cut. However, there are many who have promised to see about this work and who have not done anything. We respectfully request that this be seen about immediately as we want a cleaner Cameron.

Too, we find that many are violating the ordinance which prohibits hogs being kept within the city limits. Heretofore it seems that this ordinance has had no attention paid to it, but from here on we are insisting that it be complied with strictly. Those who know of any hogs within the city limit can aid us materially in reporting this to either B. Slocomb, City Marshall or Leland Denson, City Sanitarian. No ones name will be mentioned in our request to the owner to see that the menace is done away with.

At the present time there is another case of typhoid fever in town, and in the same part of town in which it has always been. We have tried to get these people to take the serum, but they do not seem to realize the importance. This case, it seems almost certain, is going to terminate fatally. If so, it will make the second death out of four cases this year. Does the slight cost of vaccination compare with the great cost of being sick for six weeks? Or does the slight inconvenience of being vaccinated compare with the very great inconvenience of a long sickness or maybe death? At least the intelligent people of Cameron should take every precaution. Water, milk and flies are the principal sources of typhoid fever, i. e. the bacteria are transported in and by these agents. Our city water is safe and the dairies are using more and more precautions to prevent pollution. Now if the citizens of Cameron will see that every fly breeding and fly attracting place is done away with around their premises, the fly danger will be reduced to a minimum. Help make Cameron a reputation of being a health resort.

Judge English Hurt In Fall On Sidewalk

Judge Ed. F. English, justice of the peace at Cameron, was paifully injured when he fell on the sidewalk at the corner of the First National Bank.

He sustained a broken nose and a broken knee cap in the fall and was taken to the hospital for treatment. His many friends will be pleased to learn that he is recovering but some time will be required for his complete recovery.

He has just been returned winner in the race for re-election as justice of the peace over J. M. Ralston in the primary election last Saturday.

On account of his advanced age the injuries are made more serious.

ELECTION RETURNS

On acount of the amount of work and the time required to present a correct and official table of the vote in Milam County the Herald will not be able to present the table this week. It has completed at considerable effort a complete and official table of the vote and next week it will be presented at eac hbox.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found the totals for each candidate as represented by the official returns. The table was not completed until Wednesday when the Ellison Ridge box was brought in, and the time was too limited in which to set this table.

OH, MIN!

Andy Gump in search of a rubber plantation in Mexico has been advised of two votes having been cast for him at Gause for the Texas Legislature.

The clock at the Square Drug Store is to be given away next week. Those who have keys will please bring them in beginning Monday, the second.

GOVERNOR MUST RESIGN UNDER CHALLENGE TERMS

INTEREST CENTERS AROUND PACT MADE AT BEGINNING OF STATE CAMPAIGN

Interest now centers around the challenge issued by Mrs. Ferguson and accepted by Dan Moody that if he led her one vote in the primary she would resign if he would resign in the event she led him 25,000 votes.

On returns received it is apparent that Moody will lead the governor by a good margin in the first primary.

The challenge was issued by the Governor when she opened her campaign at Sulphur Springs on the night of Saturday, May 22. The Attorney General promptly picked up the gauntlet, accepting the challenge and its terms in a speech at San Antonio the same night.

Briefly: Governor Ferguson agreed to resign if Moody leads her one vote. In accepting the challenge Moody agreed to resign if Mrs. Ferguson leads him 25,000 votes. The odds are 25,000 to 1.

MRS. FERGUSON'S CHALLENGE

"So, I make this challenge to the Attorney General. The primaries come on July 24. Regardless of the result, he and I could stay in office until the second Tuesday in January, 1927. But I will agree that if he leads me one vote in the primary that I will immediately resign without waiting until next year, if he will agree that if I lead him 25,000 votes in the primary on July 24, he will immediately resign."

MOODY'S ACCEPTANCE

"I want to say that the public offices of Texas are not to be wagered away, or bartered away, or otherwise disposed of than is provided in the Constitution and in the popular will. But, this campaign is an issue between Fergusonism and the rights of the people . . . . and so eager am I to rid Texas of everything they stand for, that I accept the challenge issued by Jim in his wife's name . . . It makes it impossible and unnecessary to discuss anything else than Fergusonism; it assures the State of a short, qiuck and decisive engagement, with a final result on the night of July 24."

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT SHAPING GOOD DETOUR

T. J. Neeley, representing the State Highway Department, has men and teams at work this week repairing the old Rockdale-Milano road so that it can be used for a detour while the new highway is being graded up. At present the detour route is ready for use, leaving the highway at Big Lump, and within another week or two Mr. Neeley expects to have the old road shaped up so that it can be traveled practically the entire distance between Rockdale and Milano. The work is being done entirely at the State's expense.

This is a very timely action, as the highway is already badly torn up by the workmen, who are making reasonably fast progress considering the extent of the grading contract, and those portions already graded are rough and bumpy.

The Reporter is informed that the old road now being shaped up for temporary use will be in practically as good conditions as the main highway was before grading started. The route bears off to the north and goes by the Sandy Creek school house—in fact it is the same old road that was used so many years before the new highway was laid out paralleling the railroad. Farmers will find that the road will be in good shape to haul their cotton to Rockdale when cotton begins to move.—Rockdale Reporter.

NOTICE TO CITY WATER USERS

On account of water conditions many people are compelled to use city water for washing and are inconvenienced because of its hardness.

To overcome this add one teaspoonful of Rub-No-More Washing Powder (the original 5c water softener) to each gallon of city water. IT SAVES SOAP.

Besides its 15 household usages it is the only cleanser that will clean sinks and tubs and dissolve upon rinsing. No sand left to clog drain pipes.

MRS. FERGUSON CALLS FOR SPECIAL SESSION; WILL QUIT OFFICE NOT LATER THAN NOV. 1

Governor Miriam A. Ferguson Monday issued a proclamation calling a special session of the Legislature for September 13, announced her withdrawal from the race for Governor whether or not Moody has a majority, and made further announcement that she will resign her office not later than November 1.

This announcement came after a day of uncertainty, conferences and much speculation as to what the Governor would do in response to her loss of the wager with Moody to resign if she did not lead him in Saturday's primary election. Her answer came unexpectedly and after a long conference had been held with former United States Senator Joseph W. Bailey of Dallas.

It is known that Mr. Bailey believed the best course was to resign and to withdraw from the gubernatorial race. He so advised.

Governor Ferguson does not fix a definite date for her resignation as Governor but says it will not be later than November 1. Should she resign on that date, it would leave ninety-nine days for Leiutenant Governor Barry Miller to serve as Governor and also continue her in office for ninety-six more days.

A number of telegrams, it became known Monday, have reached the Governor's office demanding that she resign in response to the wager and some of them were not couched in mild language. Copies of these messages, in some instances, were transmitted to others in Austin. In that way it was learned that the demands had been made that she step aside, as she proposed to do.

Issues Signed Statement

In announcing a special session of the Legislature, the Governor issued a signed statement giving her reasons and setting out the proclamation calling the special session. It contains two subjects and the usual clause reserving the right to submit additional matters. The first topic tendered is that of bond validation and the second the investigation of any state department. The last is done, she avers, in order to show that she was not afraid to call a session for investigation, as had been charged during the campaign.

Under the terms of the Constitution a special session must receive all the recess appointments of the Governor and these are many and some of them of the utmost significance in view of recent political history in this state. They are two members of the highway commission and seven members of the State Textbook Commission. The acts of both of these bodies were the live issues in the recent campaign and severely attacked by Attorney General Dan Moody.

Hal Moseley of Dallas, present chairman, and John Cage of Stephenville have been appointed members of the commission since the Legislature was last in session and their names must go to the Senate within five days ater it convenes for confirmation. They are first referred to a committee on nominations. There may be a third member appointed to the commission by the time the Legislature convenes, as John H. Bickett Sr., of San Antonio, the only confirmed member, has been in poor health and his resignation is expected daily. In that event all three members of the commission would have to be nominated by the Governor for confirmation. Should the Senate withhold confirmation or refuse it, the three members would retire and Governor Barry Miler would appoint an entirely new State Highway Commission. An affirmative two-thirds vote of the Senators present is required to confirm. With the entire Senate in attendance, twenty-one senators would have to vote for confirmation to effect it. Wholesale refusal to confirm members of the University regents appointed by Governor Neff enabled Governor Ferguson to select more than the usual number when she assumed office. Several regents have been appointed by Governor Neff in vacation and they were rejected by the Senate following their votes for Neff for president of the University. Thus the precedent was set for rejections and new appointments of almost entire boards.

Certain adoptions by the last Textbook Commission, whose names must be submitted for confirmation, not only constituted an issue in the recent campaign, but also caused an investigation by the Attorney General's department and a break between Governor Ferguson and state superintendent Marrs. Not all the members of the commission voted for the books under fire. In former Legislatures members of the Textbook commission were refused confirmation after their terms of the present commission will not expire until next January and, if confirmed, will make some heavy contracts next October.

Members of the commission whose names must be sent to the Senate are Miss Ida Mae Murray of San Antonio, T. J. Yoe of Brownsville, F. M. Black Houston; A. W. Birdwell, Nacogdoches; R S. Pascal, Fort Worth; H. A. Wroe, Austin, and F. W. Chedej, now of Austin, connected with the Ferguson Forum and active in Ferguson's campaign, having made speeches for the Governor in a number of counties. Should any or all of these be refused confirmation, Governor Miller would appoint a new commission in time for the October adoptions, but selected from fifteen names submitted by a committee consisting of the presidents of the University, A. & M. College, College of Industrial Arts, Southwest Texas State Teacher's College and State Superintendent Marrs.

The Governor's Proclamation

Governor Ferguson's proclamation follows:

The Governor's statement follows:

"To the people of Texas:

"In compliance with an agreement heretofore made, and bowing to the will of the people expressed at the polls on Sat. July 4, 1926, I desire to say that I shall resign the office of Governor upon the happening of the matters hereinafter referred to, which I hope in no event will be later than November 1, 1926.

"I also withdraw from the race for the nomination for the office of Governor in the Democratic primaries. The returns are not yet completed and it is not known now whether a run-off primary will be necessary or not. Be that as it may, however, I have determined that the lead of the opposition is so decisive that I would be doing violence to my own interests as well as the interests of the people were I to further insist upon my candidacy and I have no further desire to further embroil the people in a further campaign. I had hoped that I would be relieved from the duties of the office at an earlier date than herein stated. But in justice to myself and to my friends who have elected me, as well as the completion of unfinished departmental matters of the office are disposed of.

"During the campaign I was strongly urged to convene the Legislature in special session to consider the matter of bond validation. I did not accede to this request for the reason that I thought that this matter was of such great importance that it should not be considered during the pendency of an exciting political campaign, but I did promise that I would convene the Legislature in special session soon after the election for the purpose of passing necessary legislation to validate road bonds.

"Welcomes Investigation"

"In the campaign it was charged that I was afraid to convene the Legislature in special session for fear of investigatoin of certain departments of the State Government. For me to resign now without keeping my promise to convene the Legislature and without giving the Legislature an opportunity to investigate each department of the State Government would be or might be construed as a failure or fear on my part which I am not willing to bear.

"Therefore I have this day issued my proclamation convening the Legisalture in special session on September 13, 1926, for the following purposes:

"1. To pass necessary and proper legislation that will validate and legalize State, county, Commissioner's precinct and special road district bonds or securities whose validity has been brought in question by the decision of any state or Federal court or otherwise, and to cure any defects in the issuance of said bonds or securities or to provide by proper legislation to make said bonds or securities binding and valid debts or obligation of the authority issuing the same.

"2. To make such investigation of any department of the State Government that the Legislature may desire to make.

"3. To consider any other subject or matter which may be submitted to said special session by the Governor.

Reasons For Postponment

"The reason I have deferred the convening of the Legislature until the 13th of September, 1926, is because the bills presented to me by the bond companies which are claimed to be sufficient to meet the decision in the Archer County road bond case are in the form of a general bill or law and a special bill or law for each particular road district in the State, or in other words a general and special bill. As special or local laws require thirty days' notice by publication in some newspaper in the proper district the date of convening the Legislature had to be deferred until the 13th of September in order to give these special road districts ample time and opportunity to prepare for the publication required under the constitution under thirty days previous to the introduction of said law in the Legislature.

"Just as soon as the Legislature shall meet and dispose of the matters referred to in my proclamation, I shall at the earliest possible moment resign the office of Governor and retire to private life."

BACKACHE

Mississippi Lady Benefited by Taking Cardui.

"I took Cardui for backache and a weakened, run-down condition, and it strengthened and helped me," says Mrs. Mattie Hurt, of Coldwater, Miss.

"Before the birth of my children, when weak and nauseated, I took Cardui. After the birth of my children, when just getting up to do my work, I took a couple of bottles of Cardui and it never failed to strengthen and help me when taking it.

"I seemed to enjoy my food and my back would feel stronger. I don't believe I could have kept going had it not been for Cardui and the strength it gave me.

"When change of life came on I . . . got down in bed. Life seemed to be just a terrible drag. I did not have strength for anything. My back hurt. My limbs hurt. I was so nervous I couldn't rest.

"I knew what Cardui had done, so sent straight for it, and it did just as it had done before—strengthened and built me up."

SWEDENBORG

[1688-1772]

Volume 29, Marriage Love, views from the union of the Divine Love and the Divine Wisdom the Law of Sex throughout all creation. It shows the crown and jewel of the Christian Religion, the union of one with one only. Price $2.00.

Who Was Swedenborg?

Emanuel Swedenborg, the son of a bishop, was the great Swedish scientist, philosopher and theologian, whose vast range caused Emerson to term him the mastodon of scholars. Dr. Parkes Cadman recently named him the Universal Genius.

Officially connected, by appointment of the King, with the great mining industry of Sweden, he mastered all the sciences of his time, and wrote the most useful books on metallurgy, minerals, geology, astronomy, and the human brain.

His life search was for the human soul. How his spiritual senses were opened, after he was 50 years of age, that he might reveal the human soul, the life after death, and the Bible itself, may be read in the above named, uplifting, useful books.

THE USE OF OUR HERITAGE

In all the oratory that we have heard about the 150th anniversary of American Independence, the speakers have dwelt upon the wonderf l heritage that has been handed down on to us, and how highly favored this nation is to have all these traditions and this material prosperity.

But there is something about a heritage that demands good use, or it will do anyone more harm than good. The prodigal son of the Scriptures, for instance, demanded the heritage that was due him. He got it, and instead of making good use of it as he could have done, he squandered it. Not merely was the money wasted, but his character was demoralized by the low associations which the possession of this money obtained for him.

We constantly see young people who are blessed with wonderful opportunities, education, money, talent Yet if one does not use one's opportunities aright, they bring a curse. The young person who has these opportunities and fails to make good use of them, is going to suffer a deterioration that will make such a one a less desirable character than one who never had any.

It is the nature of anything that has real vitality to grow, and if it does not grow it is decaying. A tree which fails to grow is not merely standing still. There is some inner decay in it that will destroy it. It is so with personal and national character.

Our nation has wonderful opportunities, conferred on us by the sacrifice and effort of the fathers, the pioneers, and all who helped to build up our wonderful civic institutions. But many of the people do not seem to feel concerned whether they add anything to these opportunities or not. They are like the tree that has ceased to grow. We must constantly, thru service to the community, be making additions to the opportunities given to us, or our nation will find that it is receding instead of going ahead.

NON CO-OPERATION

In a certain town that could be named, there was a movement a few years ago to close all the stores every evening in the week but one. Previously they had kept open several evenings. It was a fine move for the town, because it relieved overworked store clerks and proprietors, and the public convenience was practically as well served when people got used to it.

Nearly all the stores went into this deal, and kept opening about every evening. The proprietor was a very hard working man, and he felt that he could serve the convenience of the public and make more money by keeping open.

You could not help admiring his industry. But he probably gained nothing by it. He worked too hard himself and worked his clerks too hard. If he had closed up with the rest, and put half of that additional effort into advertising and soliciting for the sale of his goods, he would have gotten ahead faster, and he would have helped promote the spirit of united effort in that town. The same principle applies to many points where the business men are asked to act unitedly.

CHILDREN'S STREET ACCIDENTS

A campaign to reduce automobile accidents is being carried on by R. B. Stoeckel, motor vehicle commissioner for Connecticut, and in a recent bulletin he takes up the question of accidents occurring in his state in 1925 to the following causes: Crossing streets, 878, stepping from behind some object, 464; Playing in street, 82; coasting, 66; stealing rides, 43; confusion, 16; boarding or leaving trolley, seven.

It would be found in Texas that many children always get hurt as the result of stepping from behind some vehicle standing by the side of the street. If they attempt to cross a a street that is clear of such vehicles, the great majority of drivers can see them in time and can stop. But if they suddenly dart out from behind a parked automobile, it becomes difficult for a driver to stop in time if he is going at any considerable speed.

Drivers should consider this possibility when they pass through a street with cars parked along the side, particularly if there seem to be some children along that street. They can never know when some heedless youngster will dart out from behind one of those cars without looking.

Children should be taught that this is one of the greatest dangers to them. It should be made clear to them that if they do not want to get hurt and suffer severe pain, they must look before crossing streets, and particularly that they should cross where people can have a clear view of them.

In many cases a driver can look under a car and see if he can discover anyone's feet on the further side of it, in which case he needs to show special care. Children are not the only ones who get hurt as the result of darting out from behind parked cars.

GETTING WHAT ONE WANTS

One of the thoughts emphasized by some psycologists, is that it is usually possible for people to get somewhere near what they want in this world. If people fail to attain their ends, it would be held that it is because they have failed to concentrate on them sufficiently and intelligently.

Of course reasonable limits would be admitted to this principle. If a commonplace young man sets out to be a millionaire, the chances are against him, even if he makes a big effort.

And yet it is true that if people will establish a certain object for their efforts, and work strenuously and intelligently to accomplish the same, they can commonly accomplish that purpose to some extent. But they must work hard, and they must understand and play the rules of the game. The hard work alone will not get them there, unless they show some special intellegence. One must have a certain degree of knowledge and sense to succeed in anything.

The majority of people accomplish only mediocre results, because they do not concentrate enough on their aims If they set out for business success, they allow side issues to take up too much of their time, and their attention is dissipated.

The possibilities resultng from intelligent effort by anyone of average intelligence are very considerable. But people must somehow manage to show a thorough grasp of the situations they have to deal with.

Intelligence is not necessarily a special gift which comes to only a few. It comes commonly as the result of people being very wide awake, studying their work, making keen observations of the ways of the people and the characteristics of the kind of thing they are handling. They must fit themselves for large responsibilities and prove that they are capable of meeting them, so that someone in a position to give them promotion will conceive the idea that they have exceptional ability.

WHAT THE SOUTH GIVES TO THE NATION

The South produces ninety-eight per cent of the entire sulphur output of the United States, upon which our ability to make explosives absolutely depends.

The South produces more than one-half of the entire lumber cut of the United States.

The South produces more than 50 per cent of the entire petroleum output of the country.

The South produces one-third of the corn crop of the nation.

The South produces approximately 165,000,000 tons of coal or seventy-two per cent of the total output of the United States; and this coal, to a large extent, runs the furnaces and the steel works of the West, the ships of our Navy ,the cotton mills, and other industrial plants of New England, and many other industries.

The South furnishes about one-third of the lead and zinc of the country, so essential at the present time to national existence.

The South produces all of the cotton, without which we could not wage war in our present fashion, for we shelter the soldiers beneath the South's cotton-made tents, and clothe the nafion in products made from Southern cotton, and also make high explosives.

The South consumes in its own mills about one million bales of cotton in excess of the consumption in the rest of the country, and ships its cotton largely to other sections to meet their pressing needs.

The South ships to the North and West about $100,000,000 worth of early fruits and vegetables, and it provides millions of boxes of oranges and grapefruit in addition.

The South is producing most of the manganese mined in the United States essential in the steel industry, and a large proportion of the pyrites ores which go into the manufacture of sulphuric acid for fertilizer and other purposes.

The South produces about $350,000,000 worth of food and feedstuffs in its cotton crop, most of which is shipped to the West and East.

The South produces practically all of the bauxite, the foundation of the vast aluminum industry of the whole country.

More than all and beyond all, the South is giving to the land she loves the loyalty and devotion of a people whose courage has never yet faltered in time of need.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

Well-known druggists say it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

ON HOUSEHOLD BUDGETS

"Aunt Emmy," asked Helen, "won't you explain what is meant by a household budget? You said something the other day about budgets, but I don't seem clear in my mind about it."

"A budget is simply a plan," said Aunt Emmy. "You plan what you are going to do with your income. You divide your income systematically so that you can meet your needs. You lay aside a part of your income for rent, other parts for food, clothing, heat, light, telephone, recreation, savings and so on."

"How are you going to know how much you should spend for each thing—on rent for instance, Aunty?" asked Helen.

"Experts have studied the question carefully and have worked out budgets to suit every income. Of course, you can alter these typical budgets slightly to suit your particular needs. For example, the average budget that covers incomes of from $2,000 to $10,000 a year divides your income into six parts. Ten per cent for savings, twenty per cent for rent, twenty per cent for food, twenty per cent for what is called betterment and includes education, amusement, entertainment, books, music, sports; fifteen per cent for clothes and fifteen per cent for operating expenses.

"No matter how you change the other items you must not change the savings allowance—except to increase it. A great majority of men who reach sixty are dependent on relatives or charity. If they had saved only ten cents out of every dollar, they would not have been in that plight. There is nothing like money in the savings bank to help you through the emergencies that come in everybody's life. If everybody kept one year's income in the savings bank, much misery would be averted. If you always have enough money to see you through one year, you are pretty safe. Beyond that, it is wise to let your money accumulate until you have enough to buy some good securities. Your banker will advise you about the securities that suit your needs."

"But, Aunt Emmy, suppose you wanted to alter your budget?" inquired Helen. "How would you know how to do it? A young married couple might start on a certain budget and then, when they had children to feed and educate, they might want to change it."

"Well, my dear, if they were in doubt about their financial affairs, they could always consult their banker. That is why it is so good to establish friendly relations with a bank when you start out in life. Any banker will be glad to advise young people about making their money go farther."

WHAT THE FEDERAL RESERVE HAS DONE FOR BUSINESS

What the Federal Reserve System has done for business is summed up in these points: It has (1) given business greater confidence in the ability of the banks to care for credit needs; (2) introduced an elastic currency and eliminated money panics; (3) eliminated extreme seasonal fluctuations in rates of interest; (4) brought business safely through the war and post-war crises; (5) saved millions of dollars to business through its efficient system for check collection; (6) made the gold reserve more effective as a basis for credit extension in times of extraordinary demand; (7) aided in the financing of foreign and domestic trade by developing a discount market for acceptances; (8) provided a means for handling huge financial operations of the government without interference with business; (9) aided in the re-establishment of the gold standard abroad; (10) given us an experienced banking organization which will assist us in meeting the future exigencies of business at home and abroad with courage and confidence.

Galli-Curci Swayed by the Seer of Sweden

Prima Donna Gives Wonderful Interpretation of the Writings of Emanuel Swedenborg—

HENRY FORD'S Dearborn Independent publishes a remarkable article on Galli-Curci and Emanuel Swedenborg, by Clarence W. Barron of the Wall Street Journal, the world famous financial authority.

Mr. Barron declares that Galli-Curci has the most wonderful brain he has ever met or heard of in a woman, although she is much more "a true woman with a life and soul of affection for all that is ennobling and uplifting in the family, and in color, form, and music."

Mr. Barron is chairman of the Rotch Trustees, who acting under the will of Lydia S. Rotch of New Bedford, Mass., began in 1872 a modern translation of the Theological Works which Emanuel Swedenborg wrote and published in the Latin tongue, and deposited in the libraries of the world 150 years ago.

This work was completed and published by the Houghton Mifflin Co. in 32 volumes in 1907.

About three years ago there appeared in a Cleveland paper a paragraph that among her other accomplishments Galli-Curci had read all the Theological Writings of Emanuel Swedenborg. The claim seemed so absurd to Mr. Barron that he thought it might be easily punctured by a simple inquiry as to the edition.

The Bible a Greater Work Than Ever

To Mr. Barron's direct inquiry Madame Galli-Curci promptly replied: "Yes, I have read in the past year the complete Swedenborg Works, in fact it is the Rotch Edition of the Houghton Mifflin Co. that I have.

"I can say certainly that the Bible to me is a greater work than it was before."

Mr. Barron says: "My astonishment was intensified. Familiar over many years with Swedenborg's general theological writings, I had set out to read the entire thirty-two volumes preparatory to an advertising campaign for the sale of this edition. Reading a few pages each day I finished my self-imposed task in fourteen years. I shall probably finish a second reading, at my present rate of progress, in perhaps ten years. Was it possible that a woman with no previous knowledge or relation to these books had really intelligently read them within a year?"

Swedenborg's Writings

Mr. Barron continues: "As an economist writing state papers on weights, measures, coinages and currencies, Swedenborg is easily comprehended. As an engineer transporting ships overland he is easily visualized. As a government official in the great mining industry of Sweden, writing practical books on mining and smelting, declared to be the foundation of modern metallurgy, he is of interest in the encyclopedia of scientific history. As the writer of volumes—original studies in search for the human soul—he is not without human interest.

"But when one comes to the realm of the unseen, where there is neither time nor space upon which to rest mental conceptions, few may enter into the fullness of the revelation which has come into the libraries of the world through Emanuel Swedenborg.

"Think of twenty modern-sized volumes, originally written in the Latin tongue and unfolding from the Hebrew of 'Genesis' and 'Exodus' the internal or spiritual sense that lies beneath the letter. Annex a dozen more similar volumes that not only expound every picture set forth in the book of 'Revelation' as conveyor of a tremendous truth of universal application throughout invisible degrees of creation and life, but also illumine all the problems of sex as presented throughout the universe from the union of the love and wisdom in the divine down to sex crystallization in the mineral kingdom; include the deepest of all works ever written entitled, in the original Latin, 'Angelic Wisdom Concerning the Divine Love and the Divine Wisdom.' Then answer to yourself the number of years that ought to be required to master these thirty-two volumes."

Mean More Than Any Other Books

Mr. Barron, still credulous, continued his correspondence with Madame Galli-Curci for some months. He learned that soon after she lost her dear mother she had sought the Writings of Swedenborg in a desire to know more about the other world whence her mother had gone. She spent the entire summer vacation studying Swedenborg's Works, and declared: "They have meant, and mean more to me than anything else I have ever read."

When Galli-Curci returned from California Mr. Barron motored up into the Catskills to her beautiful Italian palace, and in an afternoon with her and her husband, Mr. Homer Samuels, he was convinced that Galli-Curci had read and devoured Swedenborg in a briefer period than anybody had ever done before.

He says of this interview:

"Hours flew like minutes. I wasn't the questioner. Mr. and Mrs. Samuels were at me with the sharpest and deepest questions. They seemed in perfect harmony mentally and spiritually, as in their work in music.

Wanted to Learn

"She wanted to know about the 'Grand Man'. I told her it would be easier to comprehend it if she would forego the idea of time and space and consider, as Swedenborg says in 'The Apocalypse Explained', that every society in the heavens connects with some organ of the human body and helps to sustain it. Therefore the heavens have the organization of the 'Grand Man', but we need not think of it as a shape or figure.

"'Yes,' exclaimed her husband, 'I see it; it is organization.' I explained, also, how the 'Psalms' likewise connected with every society of the heavens, and how the world within and without was knit together in one grand poem and song of creation, man in the image of his Maker and knit into Him through the heavens, from which he has life in every organ of his body.

Swedenborg's 32 Volumes Read in a Single Summer

"'Now I understand,' she said, and asked me for explanation of other things. Her intelligent questions, as well as her statements, left no manner of doubt that Galli-Curci had performed the stupendous feat of reading the thirty-two volumes of Swedenborg in a single summer season. She declared 'Heaven and Hell' a very attractive and popular title and concerns that about which people are most eager to know; but it is not one of Swedenborg's great works; although it makes a good popular and introductory work."

A Help in Her Work

Galli-Curci understands the writings of Swedenborg even better than theologians, because she puts them into practice in the broadest life of loving helpfulness.

She said that Swedenborg had helped her in her work. She had no longer to think of herself but of her audiences, and let the music flow through her: regard herself just a medium for life to pour through. She felt with and for her audiences, and singing was no effort for her.

All Fear Vanishes

"The more you do—the more you give forth—the more life and energy is poured into you, and you are stronger and not weaker for the doing, the working and the singing. I always feel stronger; I am not exhausted at all by my singing. Swedenborg shows the reason and how life comes in as you pour it forth usefully to others. You don't have to try or worry or fret. You know it is not you but that it is just being done through you."

Speaking further of the help Swedenborg had been to her in her work she said: "One gets so much more confidence. The other world and the one life, that comprehends all life, becomes reality and all fear and worry vanish."

Miss Cora Mae Link who attended the first summer term at S. W. T. S. T. C. in San Marcos has returned to enjoy her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Link.

Mesdames Arthur Baskin and Jeff Kemp and Ben Baskin motored to Georgetown Saturday to bring Misses Rosalie Baskin and Ruth Kemp home for the week end.

LEAF WORM PEST MUST BE MET; FIGHT EARLY

EARLY PREVENTION URGED BY AGRICULTURAL EXPERT FROM A. & M.

Taylor, July 26.—Dr. F. L. Thomas, chief entomologist of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at College Station, writes the following instructive letter on the cotton flea hopper to the Taylor Chamber of Commerce:

"The cotton crop this season has been greatly delayed as a result of the injury caused by the cotton flea hopper. It is, therefore, of the utmost importance that the plants be protected from early ravages of the cotton leaf worm. By the last of July and first of August many of the "millers" will be flying and may be expected to appear in all parts of the state.

"The eggs which are layed hatch in a few days and the young caterpillars feed at first on the lower surface of the leaves. As the worms become larger they make their way to the upper portion of the plants and rapidly consume the foliage. Farmers should watch closely for the appearance of worms in the fields and be prepared to apply poison on short notice.

Poisons Are Advocated

"Any one of the arsenical poisons may be used. Calsium arsenate dust is generally considered the best. This should be applied at a rate of from four to six pounds per acre. It is also the best remedy for the boll weevil. Arsenate of lead is a slower poison, but adheres longer to the foliage. If this material is used, five to seven pounds per acre should be applied.

"When the paris green is used it should be mixed with flour to increase adherance, and with hydrated lime to offset the danger of burning. The following proportions are suggested: One part of paris green, one part flour and four parts hydrated lime. Best results are obtained by applying the poison with suitable dusting machine, but where such machinery is not available, the pole and bag method may be used. The cloth of which the bags are made should be the proper weave and thickness to allow the poison to be distributed. The bags should not be allowed to get wet. If possible apply the dust when the air is calm and the leaves moist.

How To Spray

"Where spraying is preferred, one pound of calcium arsenate or two pounds of arsenate of lead may be used in 50 gallons of water. If paris green is applied as a spray, one-half pound should be mixed with three pounds of hydrated lime in every 50 gallons of water. All spray mixtures should be freshly made up when applied."

Boll Weevil Is Considered Worst Pest

Although much emphasis is being given the cotton flea hopper, recent prominent figures in Oklahoma's crop pest group, the boll weevil continues to rank as the most destructive cotton insect in the State. Professor C. E. Sanborn of the entomology department, Oklahoma A. & M. College, says,

There is much similarity in the hopper and the weevil and the damage that has been done to crops by the hopper in past years has been laid often to the door of the weevil, Sanborn says. Both of the pests are infecting the "weevil zone," Southeastern Oklahoma.

In this section the weevil has done more harm in the extreme corner of the State, extending approximately to a line drawn from Madill to Poteau, and the hopper has gotten in its work in sections north and west of the weevol's choice ground.

The hopper is not a new pest, as many believe, Sanborn says, but people have only begun to notice it. It has been more or less generally known in some sections since 1907. The insect resembles more than anything else a small cock roach about the size of a chinch bug with the color of the cotton plant, says Sanborn.

It has piercing mouth parts and attacks tender growth on which squares are growing. Any external irritation of squares causes them to blight and drop and the plants fail to fruit. The plants will show abnormal vegetative growth but, of course, will not bear—having failed to fruit.

Clean farming and especially the eradication of host plants on which the hopper exists, together with the immediate destruction of the cotton stalks, is the preventative for the insect, Sanborn says, If care is taken in plowing under the stalks, the hopper may be destroyed in this manner as decay of the plant will destroy eggs of the insect. These preventative measures are not equally effective for the weevil, however, Sanborn points out, as the weevil does not remain on the plant long. Immediate destruction of cotton plants does aid in weevil extermination, however.

When the infestation is severe sulphur dust applied as dust spray is the best controlling agent. Superfine sulphur is best and should be applied in three applications of not less than 10 pounds to the acre. The spray should be used every four to seven days until the three applications have been given.

The dusting machine used can also be used for the application of calcium arsenate, a boll weevil control.

Boll Weevil Control, Bulletin 157, issued by the entomology department of the A. & M. Colege, can be obtained from the college and contains insect information. County agents should be interviewed in instances where some measure is necessary to curb the weevil or hopper.

Neither of the pests are as prominent as they have been in recent years, Sanborn says.

Resignation Should Come at Once, Says Moody in Statement

Austin, Texas, July 26.—Attorney General Dan Moody late Monday made a statement in which he declared that Governor Ferguson's pledge to resign by November 1 is not a compliance with the proposition she made at Sulphur Springs and accepted by him. He added that he is powerless to force her to comply with it. He says only the people con do that. His statement follows:

"I have read the proclamation and the statement of the Governor. The challenge made at Sulphur Springs was accepted by me in good faith, and had the result of the election been different my resignation would now be in the hands of the Governor.

"When the people voted they knew of the challenge and its acceptance, and the result constitutes an expression of their desire for an immediate resignation. The issue has been submitted to the people and they have spoken their will at the ballot box. The statement is not a compliance with the terms of the challenge and acceptance. The law does not give me the power to force compliance with those terms; it is for the people to determine how and when their demand expressed at the ballot box shall be complied with."

MRS. MARY DITTO IS BURIED AT LIBERTY

PIONEER MOTHER LAID TO REST SUNDAY, JULY 25 AT LIBERTY

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Ditto was conducted at the Liberty church by Rev. R. S. Marshall Sunday afternoon. The funeral was largely attended by neighbors and friends who paid the last tribute of love and respect to a christian woman who had lived in the community for a great many years. Many beautiful floral tributes were sent.

Mrs. Mary Ditto, aged 78, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Foster Robinson on Saturday July 24, 1926, where she lived for the past eight years. She was born December 7, 1848 in Tennessee and came to Texas at the age of four. She was first married to Frank Stewart. She is survived by the only son of this marriage, Frank Stewart of Phoenox, Arizona, who on account of the serious illness of his wife, was not able to be with his mother in her last illness.

In 1879, she was married to William Ditto, prominent citizen of Hanover, and to this union five children were born. Two died in infancy but three daughters survive their mother and were present at her funeral. Mrs. Rosa Hartley of Ennis, Mrs. Bettie Coulter of Alvin and Mrs. Mary Robinson of Hanover. Mrs. Ditto is also survived by her brother, James Driggers of Chickasha, Oklahoma .

Mrs. Mary Ditto when only a child united with the Methodist church and lived throughout a long and useful life, a life devoted to the Masters service and a wonderful example of the grace given by living out the old time religion.

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. York with Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Pierce and two children of Mart spent the week end in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wilson.

MOODY'S POLITICAL CAREER AND PRIVATE LIFE FURNISH MUCH OF ROMANCE AND DRAMA

The entry of Dan Moody into the Governor's race and his entire campaign for the Democratic nomination for Governor furnish one of the most romantic as well as dramatic pages of recent Texas political history.

A few weeks after he announced his candidacy, Moody married Miss Mildred Paxton, daughter of an Abilene banker. His campaign for Governorship was started not many weeks later, and the campaign was, in fact, partly his honeymoon.

At every opportunity Mrs. Moody joined her husband in his campaign and heard him make his own nomination and for the overthrow of the rule of "Fergusonism" in Texas. She was with him during the last week of the first primary campaign when he made long jumps from extreme Northeast Texas to the west and then into the southeast portion of the state.

No person in Texas had more confidence in Moody and the outcome of the race for Governor than his young wife. At the meetings she attended she refused to be pushed into the limelight, and usually heard the auburn-haired husband speak from the edge of the crowd or from a seat in an obscure corner of the speaker's stand. In some of the places where both the Attorney General and his wife were present, few in the crowd knew that Mrs. Moody was there.

Is Intensely Human

The fact that young Moody was Attorney General of Texas and a candidate for the Governorship did not prevent him from displaying the emotions of other men. In fact, the newspaper men and others who were with Moody during his campaign found him intensely human.

Friends of the young Attorney General found their chief trouble with him, especially in the first part of the campaigning, in persuading him to get to bed at night, after his evening speech. He liked to sit around in his room and talk the matters over with the newspaper men. Finally, the newspaper men in the party framed up on him and refused to talk with him after his night meetings. During the last weeks he began to appreciate better the need of a good night's rest and got as much rest as he could.

Sizes Up Crowds

Moody possesses a remarkable ability to size up his crowd. He seems to sense what kind of a speech will appeal to them and what will perhaps make enemies. To one crowd he will make a speech that will appeal to their sense of honesty and fairness, while to another he will give them a chance to yell and cheer. Oldtime politicians frequently commented on his ability to present his case in such a fashion that he would actually change many votes during his talk.

Extreme confidence over the result of the election permeated Moody from the start. To close friends he confided that he preferred to run for Attorney General for a second term, but that in the race of the urges of his friends and the belief that he could defeat the Fergusons, he put aside his own personal desires and announced for the nomination for Governor.

During the last week Moody was told many times by his supporters that they expected him to win in the first primary. He expressed hopes that this would happen, but refused to be swept of fhis feet by the prospect of such a happening.

Moody enjoyed nothing more than engaging in good-natured bantering with the newspaper men covering his campaign. He early was nicknamed Jiggs, after Ferguson applied this name, and he, in turn, invented nicknames for the correspondents.

Moody Borrows Cigaretts

Ferguson accused Moody of smoking high-priced cigaretts. Newspaper men who accompanied him will bear witness that he did not. In fact, practically all of the cigarettes he smoked were "bummed" from newspaper men. And his habit of borrowing a smoke was the subject of much "kidding."

Moody's youth served him a good stead. While Ferguson was limiting himself to one speech a day, the 34-year-old opponent of Ferguson's wife was making as many as five addresses. In fact, during the last two weeks of the campaign he probably averaged four a day, including a long address each afternoon and night. On more than one occasion he made eight or more towns daily.

Not once during the campaign did Moody exhibit fatigue on the speaker's stand. He appeared to grow more vigorous as the campaign progressed.

TO THE VOTERS

I wish to make a public acknowledgment of my thanks to my good friends who were so loyal to me in my campaign for tax assessor. Although I was defeated, I feel that I am more than repaid for all my efforts because of the many good friends I have made during the campaign; friendships which I hope will continue indefinitely; and because so many of my old friends and acquaintances have proved themselves to be real friends.

Since I was defeated by only a small majority, I expect to make the race again in 1928 as I believe conditions will be more favorable then than they have been this year. On account of so much rain in the spring, and there being practically no picnics or gatherings of any kind, I didn't have the opportunity of seeing but a small per centage of the voters, but I expect to make a more active campaign next time.

Again I want to thank all of my friends who have been so wonderful, and I wish it were possible for me to write each of you a personal letter.

With the best of good wishes to each of you, I am,

Sincerely and respectively,
H. B. McCLELLEN.

NO DOUBT OF RESULT DECLARES DAN MOODY

TRIUMPH OF PRINCIPLE OF FREE GOVERNMENT HE DECLARES

Austin, Texas, July 25.—Attorney General Dan Moody, leading candidate for governor in the first primary, informed friends Sunday that he will visit Dallas some day this week for a conference on plans for the future. These plans depend upon whether Moody has received a majority or plurality. A majority obviates a second primary, but a plurality forces a run-off with Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, the election to occur Aug. 28. Moody has not determined what day this week he will be in Dallas.

Moody issued the following statement:

"There is now no doubt of the success of our cause.

"The loyal support given my candidacy by men and women in all walks of life and in all parts of Texas is gratifying. I have no delusion that the result is a personal victory. It is the triumph of the principles of free government and democracy in which the people of this State in this campaign."

Moody was forced to have a surgeon's care Sunday when a boil on the back of his neck had to be lanced and dressed.

Moody headquarters received hundreds of telegrams from all parts of the State and even distant states, part of the Lion's delegation at San Francisco having wired congratulations.

Ex-Governors Colquitt and Hobby wired their best wishes and Mrs. Pat Neff did likewise, saying Mr. Neff was out of the state, but joined in her congratulations no less heartily.

THE MAN WHO SAVES YOU MONEY

JIM THANKS FRIENDS WHO SUPPORTED MA

FIREY CROSSES WILL BURN HE SAYS IN SUMMING UP RESULT

Austin, July 28.—(AP)—Former Governor James E. Ferguson issued a statement late Wednesday scoring "the Ku Klux Klan and the monkey-faced Baptists" and thanking the friends who supported Governor Miriam A. Ferguson in the recent democratic primary election and campaign.

The statement, Ferguson's weekly letter to his Forum, weekly paper published in Temple, was entitled "How It Happened," and said, regardless of personal feeling, "my good wife and I are desirous and hopeful that Dan Moody's administration may be one of service to the people and that his administration be not doomed by those who are already in the field to further their personal and selfish interests."

"I don't know," Ferguson wrote. "I am just beginning to find out. I hope in due course to be able to learn the real reason for the results in last Saturday's election. I think the opposition in their desire to gloat over the defeat of a woman will aid us in getting the evidence. For instance, I received this telegram from Mrs. Moss of Dallas reading as follows:

"'What do you now think of the monkey-faced Baptists and the Ku Klux Klan? Do you think they are dead?"

"I am informed that Mrs. Moss was quite prominent in the Dalas campaign and she has unwittingly furnished a clue as to the silent influences that were worked last Saturday in the campaign. Nobody need be surprised to see the fiery cross in evidence and this crowd is so wild with victory that we need not be surprised to see a Ku Klux parade in the next 60 days and perhaps some good American will fall a victim of the lash.

"Some prominent politicians are claiming that the anti-mask law from this time on is a nullity and that a strong demand will be made for the repeal of the search and seizure law.

"It is amusing but of course not surprising to see this crowd demanding that the governor resign at once before she keeps her promise to give the bond validating crowd what they were clamoring for and to give the politicians what they are demanding in the way of legislative investigation of departments. If the governor had not done this and left the mansion without washing the windows and sweeping the floors the same crowd would have said that she had fled office because of the consciousness of guilt of some kind.

"But the main thing—why I am writing this article, is that I want to hasten to thank our 275,000 friends who stood by the governor in a campaign backed by more fanaticism, more money and more selfish interest than ever backed any other candidate in Texas. These 275,000 voters were individual and independent voters who were fearless enough to express their loyalty and devotion. We shall not cry. We shall not whimper. We shall not falter in our determination to stand for those things that are for the interest of the great masses of the people and this seeming defeat may be the means of emphasizing to the people the necessity of being on guard more actively for the protection of their lives and their liberty.

"Regardless of any personal feeling my good wife and I are desirous and hopeful that Mr. Moody's administration may be one of service to the people and his administration be not dominated by those who are already in the field to further their personal and selfish interests.

"We shall endeavor to return good for evil by announcing at once that our friends throw no stones in the way of the success of the incoming administration. If Mr. Moody shall give to the state a good and successful administration he will be entitled to a second term. If he does not he himself has set the precedent that will no longer bind the people by the political custom in force in Texas for half a century.

"I am writing these lines hurridly and by way of personal privilege I want to say that my plans are yet undetermined other than to say that I will endeavor to at least have a few things to say from time to time involving those things that effect the good of the people and the state.

"The crowd that broke their pledge two years ago and voted for Butte, a republican, after promising to vote for governor Ferguson, a democrat, are the last people on earth to lecture anybody on keeping promises. And how about Tom Love being permitted to go into the primary boasting that he would not keep his pledge if governor Ferguson was nominated."

Wash Kidneys If They Hurt

Take Salts to flush Kidneys if Back pains you or Bladder bothers.

Flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much meat and rich food may form uric acid, which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acids of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer irritates, thus often ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink.

BACK HURT BAD

Lady Had Severe Pains in Back and Got Very Weak.

"I think very highly of Cardui for I have had great benefit from its use," says Mrs. Cora Nicholson, of Ware Shoals, S. C.

"I was in bed quite a while. It looked like my strength would not come back, and I suffered with severe pains in my back whenever I would try to get up. Sometimes I would scream out, my back hurt me so bad.

"My husband got me some Cardui and I took two bottles. Very shortly after I began to take it I could notice I felt better. I began to get stronger. My appetite was improving and I could see that I was much better.

"After I had finished the second bottle I was able to be up and do all my own housework, so of course I think Cardui is fine. It is the best tonic for women that I know anything about, and I am glad to recommend it. Not long ago I told a lady friend of mine about it, and it did her as much good as it has done for me."

WHY CO-OPERATE

Business men sometimes ask, when a movement for some kind of joint action is promoted in the trade circles of their town, why they should go in for something that they do not approve of? They remark that this is a free country, where everyone has the right to do what he sees fit.

While that is true within limits, yet this is a time of organized effort, and communities that organize and act as a unit, will make about twice as rapid progress, as those where the business men and citizens play lone hands, and each go ahead "on their way." Let us in Cameron be one of the organized places where the benefits of combined action are gained.

SULPHUR IS BEST TO CLEAR UP UGLY, BROKEN OUT SKIN

Any breaking out or skin irritation on face, neck or body is overcome quickest by applying Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation that instantly brings ease from the itching, burning and irritation.

Mentho-Sulphur heals eczema right up, leaving the skin clear and smooth. It seldom fails to relieve the torment or disfigurement. A little jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur may be obtained at any drug store. It is used like cold cream.

W. G. Henderson, painter, Box 732, says: "My back ached and getting up time was anything but pleasant for the muscles in my back were sore and drawn and every move was painful. It was nothing unusual for me to get up several times during the night to pass the secretions and this showed my kidneys were very much out of order. After using Doan's Pills from the Jackson Pharmacy No. 2, I was entirely cured."
